Course Description

This class traces the story of United States history from the post-Civil War era to the recent past. It probes political, diplomatic, economic, social, and cultural developments of the past century and a half. During this time American life was transformed from primarily agricultural to industrial to technological. In its investigation of the industrial and post-industrial eras, the course gives special attention to the assertion of American economic and military power abroad and the roles of immigrants, minority races, and women in the social transformations of the times.

Required Textbook(s)

The American Promise, James L. Roark, et. al., Volume II: From 1865, Value Edition (8th Edition; 2019). ISBN: 9781319208967 [hereafter "AP"]

The textbook contains sections of primary sources, which you will need to read carefully. Primary sources are materials that provide us with an individual's personal perspective of history. These are first-hand accounts that contain crucial information about the past to help historians achieve a developed understanding of historical events and ideas. Secondary sources are historians' interpretations of the past and thus exemplified by the overall narrative presented in the textbook.

Classroom Rules

Asynchronous Online Course: This course is run asynchronously, which means students are not required to participate in live class sessions. There will be opportunities for live engagement, but attendance at these sessions is not required. All of your work will be submitted online through Moodle online platform or associate applications.

Assignment Completion Requirement: Students must complete all assignments in order to receive an overall passing grade for the course.

Lectures: The lectures for this course will be in the form of videos posted on Moodle by the date listed on the schedule below. You are responsible for keeping up with the lectures, which provide necessary context for the readings and help you prepare for discussions, exams, and papers. If you have questions about the lectures, sign up for virtual office hours or submit a question to be answered in the live Q&A session.

Reading Assignments: You are required to complete all readings, available via the textbook or links to online pages.

Office Hours: My office hours will be held every Monday and Tuesday, 9:30-10:00 am (China Standard Time) via Zoom. Note that I am based in the east coast of the U.S., so this translates into 21:30-22:00 (Eastern Standard Time) for me. Students can sign up for individual meetings on the link provided above.

Weekly Live Q&A Sessions: Every Tuesday, from 9:00am to 9:30am CST (21:00-21:30 PST), I will be available on Zoom to answer questions that you might have about the course material. This is your best opportunity to get clarifications on the lectures and readings from the professor.

Online Conduct: Please be sure to identify yourself by name in all online communications except where anonymous responses are solicited. Students are expected to communicate with each other respectfully and professionally whether through virtual communications or in person. Never assume the gender/sexual/ethnic/racial/class/etc. identity of the other students or instructors in the course.

Course Etiquette: Please respect the education of your fellow students. No disruption of education is allowed while class is in session.

Copyright: All lectures, assignments, and course materials are copyrighted and may not be duplicated, posted online, recorded, or distributed without permission from the professor. Students violating this policy will be reported and held legally accountable.

Course Schedule

Please note that the schedule is meant to give an overview of the major concepts in this course. Changes may occur in this calendar as needed to aid in the student's development.

Week 1

Lesson #1: The Historian's Craft: In this lesson, we survey historical methodology and theory. Particular emphasis will be placed on distinguishing between primary and secondary sources as well as how to read both types of documents. We will also learn how historians avoid anachronism and seek to study the past on its own terms. Learning how to ask historical questions and read documents in context are central goals of this lesson.

- Online Lecture 1: Introduction to the Course

Lesson #2: Reconstruction, 1865-1877: This lesson explores the moment shortly after the American Civil War where it looked like the United States government might recognize equality among all citizens. That did not happen, however, as soon new systems were put in place to ensure white-male hegemony. We will also examine how African Americans used Reconstruction as an opportunity to create their own institutions and concepts of freedom.

- Online Lectures 2-4: Reconstruction x 3
- Reading: AP, Chapter 16: Reconstruction, 1863-1877

Lesson #3: The Gilded Age, 1877-1900: This lesson examines the many responses to the mechanized production and the growth of industrial capitalism. Rural farmers, workers, and immigrant experiences will be highlighted. We will also look at the effects that U.S. imperialism had on both Americans and those the US sought to control.

- Online Lectures 5-7: Conquest and Expansion x 3
- Reading: AP, Chapter 17: The Contested West, 1865-1900

- Online Lectures 8-11: Industrialization and Urbanization x 4
- Reading: AP, Chapter 18: The Gilded Age, 1865-1900

Online Lecture 12: Week 1 Review

Week 2

Lesson #4: The Progressive Era, 1900-1914: In this lesson, we continue to focus on the intensification of industrialization and the growth of the federal government. Rather than simply protect property, however, during the Progressive era, many voices emerged critical of the concept of "limited government." As a result, local, state, and federal governments became more active in promoting the welfare of citizens. powerful inequalities still remained in the nascent welfare-state, however.

- Online Lectures 13-15: Labor Conflict x 3
- Reading: AP, Chapter 19: The City and Its Workers, 1870-1900

- Online Lectures 16-19: U.S. Imperialism x 4
- Reading: AP, Chapter 20: Dissent, Depression, and War, 1890-1900

- Online Lectures 20-23: Progressive Movement x 4
- Reading: AP, Chapter 21: Progressive Reform, 1890-1916

Online Lecture 24: Week 2 Review

Exam 1 administered online at 9-10am (CST) on Friday

Week 3

Lesson #5: The United States in World War I, 1914-1920: We will explore the causes of World War I as well as the United States reluctant and belated entry into the war. We will pay particular attention to the ways in which the US government worked to create a sense of urgency and shared identity while making its case for entry into the war.

- Online Lectures 25-28: WWI x 4
- Reading: AP, Chapter 22: World War I: The Progressive Crusade, 1914-1920

Lesson #6: A New Era?, 1920-1929: We will discuss the years between World War I and the Great Depression. We will examine the conservative backlash against Progressivism but also how many Americans used post-war prosperity to cultivate art and a shared identity.

- Online Lectures: 29-30: 1920s Culture & Society x 2
- Reading: AP, Chapter 23: From New Era to Great Depression, 1920-1932

Lesson #7: The Great Depression and the New Deal, 1929-1940: In this lesson, we will examine the causes of the rapid economic growth the United States in the 1920s as well as the major decline known as the Great Depression. While causes of economic booms and busts are important, we will also look at how the economy affected Americans lives and how Americans responded to economic growth and travails.

- Online Lectures 31-32: The Great Depression x 2
- Reading: AP, Chapter 23: From New Era to Great Depression, 1920-1932
- Online Lectures 33-35: The New Deal x 3

Take-Home Final Exam due at 9am (CST) on Friday

Grading Policy

Your final grade in this course is based upon performance on two examinations and three paper assignments.

Paper Assignment	20%
Exam 1 (Online)	25%
Exam 2 (Online)	25%
Final Exam (Take-Home)	30%
Total	100%

Writing Assignment: (20%): You will write one 1000-word essay based on the assigned readings. Your essay should answer the assigned question(s) and then provide specific examples from the reading to support your answer. Your essay is due at the indicated deadline via online submission. It must be typed in 12-point font and double-spaced with one-inch margins. Evaluation will be based on your understanding of the material and your ability to draw on specific examples from the reading to defend your answer.

Midterm Exams: (50%): You will complete two Midterm Exams on Moodle on the times and dates listed in the Course Schedule. The exams will consist of multiple choice questions. A study guide will be available for review in advance.

Final Exam: (30%): A cumulative take-home final examination will be due on Friday, week 5. Your response will be a clearly argued essay. The format (typed in 12-point font and double-spaced with one-inch margins) should be the same as the Paper Assignment.

Grading Scale

Academic Integrity

As members of the Jinan University academic community, students are expected to be honest in all of their academic coursework and activities. Academic dishonesty, includes (but is not limited to) cheating on assignments or examinations; plagiarizing, i.e., misrepresenting as one's own work any work done by another; submitting the same paper, or a substantially similar paper, to meet the requirements of more than one course without the approval and consent of the instructors concerned; or sabotaging other students' work within these general definitions. Instructors, however, determine what constitutes academic misconduct in the courses they teach. Students found guilty of academic misconduct in any portion of the academic work face penalties that range from the lowering of their course grade to awarding a grade of E for the entire course.
