Course Description

This course provides an opportunity for students to discover the realities of modern marketing in contemporary situations, emphasizing the functional approaches to understanding the competitive environment, gaining knowledge required in evaluating markets effectively, and adjusting to the rapid changes in the global managerial world. The Principles of Marketing course focuses on consumer behavior, product, channels of distribution, promotion, and pricing with an emphasis on a culturally diverse environment, segmentation, positioning, and targeting. Course goals include providing an overview and introduction to marketing; demonstrating the relationship of marketing to other functions and processes in a business organization on an integrated basis; providing real-world examples of challenges and issues related to marketing; and explaining and discussing important concepts and analytical tools in marketing.

Course Objectives

- Introduce students to marketing terminology and concepts.

- Provide students with an understanding of marketing theory and practice.
- Help students understand the basic practices and problems in marketing and gain skills involved in marketing management.
- Explain the importance of technology and marketing information gathering for purposes of market segmentation, understanding of consumer behavior, implementation of marketing concepts, and environmental analysis.
- Discuss social responsibility and how the external environment affects marketing.
- Expand students' knowledge and emphasize the importance of global marketing and global marketing strategy.
- Define the role of uncontrollable factors in marketing decision making.
- Identify and explain important concepts (such as target marketing, positioning, marketing orientation, segmentation, product life cycle, etc.) in marketing.
- Describe consumer and business buyer decision making processes and identify the factors that influence buyer behavior.
- Demonstrate how to develop marketing strategy and a marketing mix, consisting of product, price, distribution, and promotion strategy.

Course Goals

1. Terminology - Students will learn academic language and terminology regarding modern marketing. Additionally, students will learn various marketing concepts that are helpful in managing and developing marketing plans. To some extent, students will also learn how to apply those concepts.
2. Theory - Students will learn various marketing concepts and theories. By the end of this course, students will know how to identify retailing trends, how to communicate via marketing channels, what pricing strategies firms can use, and how to create value for customers. Students will also learn how to apply the concepts discussed.
3. Attitude - This course is meant to shape students' attitude toward business marketing. It is expected that the students will finish the course with a realistic attitude toward marketing and creating value.

4. Writing & Analysis - Students will complete some case analyses and write reports for these analyses. These cases are designed to improve writing skills by learning to write a concise analysis of management cases. This also involves an analytical component. Both writing and analysis should prepare students for higher level classes.
5. Internet - Students need to further develop internet skills to identify various resources available for organizations and to use them in enhancing decision making and analytical skills.

Academic Integrity

As members of the Jinan University academic community, students are expected to be honest in all their academic coursework and activities. Academic dishonesty includes (but is not limited to) cheating on assignments or examinations; plagiarizing, i.e., misrepresenting as one's own work any work done by another; submitting the same paper, or a substantially similar paper, to meet the requirements of more than one course without the approval and consent of the instructors concerned; or sabotaging other students' work within these general definitions. Instructors, however, determine what constitutes academic misconduct in the courses they teach. Students found guilty of academic misconduct in any portion of their academic work face penalties that range from the lowering of their course grade to awarding a grade of E for the entire course.
