Course Description

This class traces the German History from the end of World War II to the present. We will study the formation of two separate states: the German Democratic Republic and the Federal Republic of Germany, the everyday life under communism and democracy, relations between the two Germanies, and the role of these states in the Cold War. We will analyze the rise of left-wing terrorism, discuss the role of atonement for the crimes of the Holocaust, and compare the lives of workers in the two states. We will then trace the events leading to the fall of the Berlin Wall in 1989 and think about the many challenges Germans continue to face following reunification.

Required Textbook(s)

Germany Since 1945: Politics, Culture, and Society. Peter C. Caldwell, Karrin Hanshew, Bloomsbury, ISBN 9781474262415

Additional readings and screenings will be provided by the instructor.

Measurable Course Objectives

Measurable Course Objectives are outcomes students are expected to achieve by the end of the course:

- To explore the crucial and ongoing impact of competing memories and conflicting narratives on a continent devastated and ripped apart in war and genocide, but eventually united in the pursuit of peace and economic cooperation.
- Introducing the skills of primary and secondary source analysis and strengthen student reading comprehension, critical thinking, and analytical writing.
- The significant themes of this course include the development of political traditions of sovereignty and public representation, imperialism, industrialization, and the ways in which these were implicated in the growth of nationalism and spread of capitalism.

Collegewide Student Learning Outcomes

The Collegewide Student Learning Outcomes assessed and reinforced in this course include the following:

- Communication
- Critical Thinking
- Global Sociocultural Responsibility

Grading Policy

Your final grade for this semester is determined by your completion of all exams, your research paper, and participation in discussion and other class activities. You will notice that your grade is dependent upon only a few assignments. As such, it is required that you at least complete all of the major assignments in order to be eligible to pass.

- Course Introduction 5%
- Research Paper Proposal 5%
- Midterm Exam (Sections 1-3) 30%
- Research Paper 30%
- Final Exam (Sections 4-5) 30%

This class operates on a points system. No plus/minus grades will be given on papers or exams.

Exams

There will be two exams this semester: a midterm and a final exam. Both exams will consist of 20 multiple choice questions, worth 30% of your total grade. The exams will have students connect to the pre-recorded lectures and related course material. The final exam will not be a cumulative but will cover all material following the midterm.

Research Paper Proposal

At the end of Week 2, students will develop a short proposal for a research paper, which they will submit at the end of Week 4. The purpose of the proposal is to give you a chance to think about what questions you want to answer in your final paper, as well as to provide for me an opportunity to give you some feedback/suggestions about your topic. This activity is an opportunity to create a blueprint for how you will proceed with your research project.

Research Paper

Students will also develop a 5–7-page (double-spaced) research paper on either an important person or event related to modern German history, politics, or culture. While it is important to prove that you have internalized and gained recallable knowledge about modern German history, it is even more important that you are able to think critically on particular historical events and make evidence-based arguments and conclusions in relation to those events.

I will certainly help you find an appropriate topic as we progress throughout the semester, but my initial suggestion would be to take the opportunity to explore a person or event that you are not as familiar with. This will make the research process much more interesting and should help you to avoid writing a paper based on your preconceived notions about your chosen person/event.

Grading System of JNU:

Definition	Letter Grade	Score
Excellent	A	90~100
Good	B	80~89
Satisfactory	C	70~79
Poor	D	60~69
Failed	E	Below 60

Academic Integrity

As members of the Jinan University academic community, students are expected to be honest in all of their academic coursework and activities. Academic dishonesty, includes (but is not limited to) cheating on assignments or examinations; plagiarizing, i.e., misrepresenting as one's own work any work done by another; submitting the same paper, or a substantially similar paper, to meet the requirements of more than one course without the approval and consent of the instructors concerned; or sabotaging other students' work within these general definitions. Instructors, however, determine what constitutes academic misconduct in the courses they teach. Students found guilty of academic misconduct in any portion of the academic work face penalties that range from the lowering of their course grade to awarding a grade of E for the entire course.
